Reports that these 8,000 bales were for shipment here, presumably to be delivered on the July contracts, only added to the uneasiness of near-hyshory, who accepted the statement as indicating that the outstanding short interest in July was larger than expected. In addition to the higher cables and the approaching maturity of the July contracts, the weather map reflected continued hot, dry weather in sections of the belt, and for a time the shorts appeared utterly demoralized. July, which had closed on the preceding night at 12,00 bid, was bid for at 12,6c, and was not sold until 13,70c was reached, and immediately another sale was reported at 13,75c, or 14 points over the previous high records. Judge A. W. Hope of Alton City Court and Patrolman George Russell Fought in Front of City Hall.

Judge A. W. Hope, Judge of the Alton City Court, and Patrolman George Russell of the Alton police force engaged in a fist fight yesterday a few minutes after noon. Shortly before the mix-up, Judge Hope was standing in front of the City Hall engaged in conversation with former Mayor A. W. Young and Judge B. H. Canby of East St. Louis, one of the attorneys for is being heard in the City Court. Policeman Russell was standing in front

Policeman Russell was standing in front of the police station, a few feet away, and says that he heard Judge Hope using profane language in speaking of Street Commissioner Thomas Coppinger.

Russell says that he stepped up to place Judge Hope under arrest for using profane language, but that Judge Hope resisted. In the fight Patrolman Russell received a blow on the right eya, which took some skin off his face. The bystanders, however, interfered before any serious harm was done to either party.

The account of the affair as given by Judge Hope and former Mayor A. W. Young is that they were engaged in conversation with Judge Camby when Russell stepped up and threw his arms around Judge Hope's body to arrest him. Judge Hope broke the officer's hold, and in the encounter M. Rubenstein, a bystander, was struck. Rubenstein at once struck back, and, it is claimed, that the blow received by Russell was given by Rubenstein.

Judge Hope claims that he did not use profane language as alleged, and further avers that the attack upon him was premeditated.
